ÆTNA

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,

OF HARTFORD, CONN.

THE ÆTNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Grew out of the Old Ætna Fire Insurance Company, having been first organized as a Branch of that Company. The Life Fund was afterward separated from the Fire Fund, with the same Stockholders as before. In 1861 the Mutual was combined with the Stock plan; by this combination the insured secure all the benefits of a Mutual Co., and the additional security which a safely invested capital affords. Since that time the ÆTNA has enjoyed unusual prosperity, and increased its business to an unprecedented extent. The energy and enterprise which have characterized its operations are best indicated by the following figures:—

The Receipts for the Year 1863 were $201.454 67.
The Receipts for the Year 1864 were 694.827 53.
The Receipts for the Year 1865 were 1.683.039 57.

The number of Policies issued during the year 1865 was 8819.

This UNPARALLELED GROWTH or "attainment of breadth" of base is well regarded by competent authority as the true measure of success.

The ÆTNA pays a 50 per cent. dividend on the premiums of ordinary Life Policies TWO YEARS from the first payment of premium. This is 6 per cent better than the 50 per cent. dividend paid by other Companies four years from the first payment of premium. The Ætna issues the usual

Life Plan and the Endowment Plan, also the

TEN-YEAR NON-FORFEITING POLICIES,

TEN-YEAR NON-FORFEITING ENDOWMENT POLICIES.

The Ætna stands ahead in new business and with the lowest expenses, which is the best guarantee to the insured.

All information cheerfully given and applications for policies taken by the subscribers.

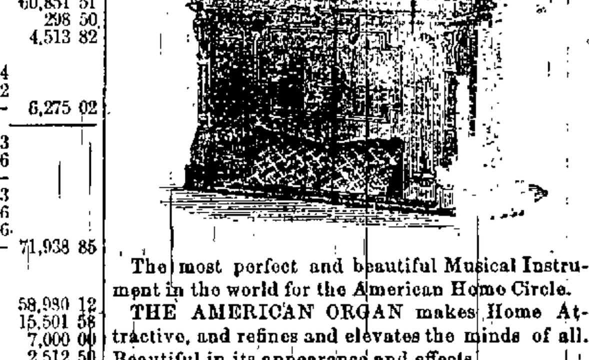
S. D. & H. W. SMITH'S AMERICAN ORGANS

MANUFACTORY,

Tremont, opposite Waltham St.,

BOSTON, MASS.



The most perfect and beautiful Musical Instrument in the world for the American Home Circle.

THE AMERICAN ORGAN makes Home Attractive, and refines and elevates the minds of all. Beautiful in its appearance and effects.

Seventeen---17---First Premiums were awarded to the American Organs IN THE MONTH OF OCTOBER, 1865, over all Competitors, at different State and County Fairs.

First Premium awarded to the American Organs at the Great New York State Agricultural Fair at Rochester, September 1864, over the Whole catalogue exhibited by the most Celebrated Makers.

THE AMERICAN ORGANS are the ONLY REAL REED ORGANS now before the public.—The only Organ having a REVERBERATING SOUND BOX or WIND CHEST—which has the same important part to perform as the Sounding Board has in a Piano Forte (to give body and resonance of tone) and without which the Organ becomes merely a Melodeon in an Organ case. The American Organs not only have the Wind-Chest, or Sound-Box but have the large Organ Bellows, giving power and great steadiness of tone. These with their extreme fine voicing of the Reeds and perfecting of the tone, make them the MOST PERFECT ORGAN KNOWN. Then, in fineness of workmanship, finish of action, and case, they excel all others. These great improvements and superiority of tone and workmanship of the AMERICAN ORGANS place them in the first rank as the best, and command a higher price than any other reed instrument in the market. A careful examination of them in comparison with others, will quickly show their superiority.

Special attention is called to the style of AMERICAN ORGAN, No. 17, containing the Super-Octave Coupler and Sub-Bass. FOR CHURCHES in want of a powerful instrument, whose means are limited its price renders it very desirable.

EVERY ORGAN IS WARRANTED TO PROVE SATISFACTORY.

THE AMERICAN ORGANS all have the Reverberating Sound-Box, or Wind-Chest, and are finished in the highest style of art, in Rosewood, Jet Walnut, and Oak finish, richly Varnished and Polished, or in Smooth Oil Finish, forming elegant pieces of Furniture for the Parlor or Boudoir; and the Oak and Walnut especially adapted for Churches, Lecture and Lodge Rooms.

THE AMERICAN ORGANS are all finished with our new PATENT improvements, containing the improved Knee Swell, Double Bellows, two Blow Pedals, and TREMOLO found in no other instrument.

Matters in Washington—Unfavorable Accounts from Texas.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.

Mr. Garrison lectured at Brooklyn last night. He endorsed Congress and denounced the President and Secretary Seward, saying, "We have not a sober man in the Presidential chair, and it would have been far better for Mr. Seward to have died beneath the hand of the assassin Payne, than have survived and forwarded such a besotted telegram to the presidential leaders of the rebel and copperhead forces of the country."

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.

The Herald says the most important result of Secretary Seward's visit to the West Indies, was the negotiations for the harbor of St. Thomas as a naval station for our ships of war, which was fully accomplished.

The Bank Committee have returned from Washington, having accomplished the result of their mission to the Secretary of the Treasury and Treasurer. The average deposits of banks are to be taxed after the amount of checks drawn against the accounts of each day is deducted. The gross deposits will be returned, and a separate account of uncollected checks will be kept to be placed to the credit of the banks.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28.

Advices from Galveston say that the State Convention has adopted a new article to the Constitution, abolishing involuntary servitude except for crime, protecting African descendants in their rights of property, and allowing them to testify in courts by a vote of 56 against 26 and ordered it engrossed.

Agents of the Freedmen's Bureau report that armed bands in the interior of Texas are defying the U. S. soldiers, and maltreating laborers on plantations. Forces have been sent to afford protection.

The crops are about to be abandoned and the freedmen removed to places of safety.

Many counterfeit compound interest bonds are in circulation, dated Jan. 15, 1864. Several arrests have been made.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.

The Commercial says:

Monetary affairs are steadily returning to a condition of comparative ease. Some banks have withdrawn deposits from the Sub-Treasury. There is a steady gain of currency from the west. Money is plenty at 6 @ 7 per cent., mostly at the former. Discounts are more active. Rates firm. There are loud complaints against the Treasury gold sales, which reached $15,000,000, in two weeks, entirely through one broker.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 28.

About 4 o'clock this A. M., a bottle filled with an explosive fluid was thrown through the window of a house on Lafayette street, occupied by Capt. Bottyern, constable. The Captain was sleeping in the room, which was suddenly enveloped in flames. He escaped alive, though somewhat burned, but the house was destroyed. The author of the outrage is unknown.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 28.

The Speaker introduced, in the Assembly, resolutions endorsing Congress and the President, and urging conciliation, forbearance, and rational concessions, to harmonize existing differences.

The stove founders are to hold a national convention here on March 14th, to protect their interests against iron moulders.

The reported wounding of Gen. Grant is said to be a hoax.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.

The ways and means committee have agreed to report a bill providing a tax of 5 cents per pound on cotton, and allowing a drawback on manufactured goods exported. They have also agreed to report a bill exempting from taxation all incomes under $1000, and taxing all above that sum a uniform rate of 5 per cent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.

The Morris Insurance Company will certainly be wound up. The assets are $90,000 above liabilities. A receiver has been appointed.

The Spanish Minister has made a representation to our Government concerning alleged shipment of contraband goods to Chili, and the Customs authorities have been enjoined to strictly enforce the neutrality laws. The Spanish Minister mentions some suspicious facts, but nothing of a positive character.

A Mormon Exodus.

It is currently reported, upon authority for which we are not responsible, that Brigham Young has purchased two of the Sandwich Islands, to which he proposes to remove and take the disciples with him. If the report is correct, it is the most welcome news we have had since the close of the rebellion. The Mormon faith and government, occupying a strange relation to religion and law, and highly offensive to nearly every one in the country, held such a position that they could not well be assailed by legal methods, and grew to such a rank offensiveness that they could not well be tolerated.

The saints were driven from Nauvoo for notorious offenses, and in their retreat at Deseret, while building a city and thriving in their business, have been disloyal, insolent, and hostile to those enterprises which, if unmolested, would have done quite as much to improve the territory as Brigham's followers have done. Each succeeding year must have created more difficulties between the Mormons and the people and government, until it is evident the former would have been forced to emigrate again. If they go now beyond our borders, we shall be able to add to the collect for thanksgiving an acknowledgment for the destruction of our two most offensive national crimes at nearly the same moment—slavery and polygamy.

The Sandwich Islands are thirteen in number, having an aggregate area of about 6500 square miles. Six are mere islets, and two of the remainder are of small size. There is sufficient spare room to sustain the whole population of Salt Lake without trouble, and the climate and peculiar government present many attractions to a peripatetic theology of this sort. But when, only a year or two since, Brigham sent a deputation of apostles to labor with the islanders, they were disgusted with the faith of the book of Mormon, and got rid of the apostles in the most summary manner possible, threatening imprisonment and other punishment. It seems, if the current statement is true, that they were not vigorous in their rejection, and that the children of Pomare will be called on to restrain the offenses of some from the very race which carried civilization to them.

Whatever effect this emigration may have on the Sandwich Islands, it will, when accomplished, instantly give a new start to the healthy settlement of Utah, to the exploration of its mines, the cultivation of its fields, and those numerous other pursuits which can be advantageously followed there. The railroad enterprizes of that section will not suffer, and it is hard to see what loss we shall have to deplore, or what advantage the Hawaiians can exult over. Looking at the mere face of the movement, it is one of the most singular hegiras on record, and probably the last which Jo. Smith's followers will ever have strength to make.

THE UNGRATEFUL—A Fable. A fisherman, just throwing out his line, saw a man fall into the water. He ran to his help and finally succeeded in hooking him up by the clothes, but, unfortunately, he wounded one of his eyes with his book. He took the wounded man to his house, nursed him till he was healed. But no sooner was the ungrateful wretch departed than he entered a complaint against the fisherman for having wounded him. The case was heard, and the judges were embarrassed, when a fool raised his voice in the court, "Gentlemen," he said, "it is easy to decide the matter. This man complains that the other has put out his eye. Now throw him into the water in the place where he fell in. If he gets out himself, it is fair that he should obtain damages of the fisherman; but if not, leave him there, and reward the fisherman for the service he has rendered." The complainant withdrew in haste, giving up his demand.

The Great Worm Remedy.

IT has been said by more than one eminent physician that more sickness among children is the result of Pin Worms than all other causes;—that worms imitate the symptoms of most other diseases, often producing fatal results, without being suspected. From this cause of so much sickness, every family may have an effectual remedy, by procuring a bottle of

Dr. E. G. Gould's Pin Worm Syrup.

It will remove ordinary stomach worms oftener than any of the vermifuges in the market, and for Pin Worms it has no equal. It will relieve children or adults from all annoyance in twenty-four hours, and effect an entire cure when taken according to directions. It is a mild cathartic, and can be given to the youngest child with perfect safety. It improves the health by removing all impurities from the system.

MUTTY'S

Friction Feed Roller,

FOR CIRCULAR SAWS.

PATENTED JANUARY 23d, 1866.

THIS INVENTION is applicable to all Circular Saws provided with stationary tables and used for re-sawing lumber.

It reduces the labor of sawing one half, and fifty per cent. more lumber can be sawed with, than without its use. It is applied without change of existing machinery; is not liable to get out of repair, and not expensive to apply.

It has been in practical use on the Penobscot river for one year, where the above facts have been fully and satisfactorily demonstrated, as is shown by the certificates of master mill-men, machinists, owners and operators of mills appended hereto.

The undersigned have for the past season witnessed the practical use of MUTTY'S FEED ROLLER in re-sawing lumber, and we cheerfully recommend it as a practical, economical, and labor saving invention, destined to come into general use in all cases where lumber is re-sawed upon stationary tables. We are fully satisfied from our own observation that the saving effected, and extra amount out, by its use, is fully as large as the estimate above given.

WHEELER & LYNDE, PROPRIETOR

WM. H. WHEELER, EDITOR.

Business letters should be addressed to the Publishers, "WHEELER & LYNDE."

THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1866.

Maine Central Railroad.

We are indebted to the Superintendent, Edwin Noyes, Esq., for a copy of the Annual Reports, which show the affairs of the Company to be in a good condition, and the business and profits of the past season to have been of an encouraging nature. The change of time of Annual Meeting makes the present report apply to seven months' business only. Hon. A. P. Morrill, President, in his report, says that "a large portion of the floating debt has been paid and the financial condition of the Company much improved.

"Total earnings from June 1, to Dec. 31, 1865, from all sources, $335,970.70. Average per month, $47,995.70. Total expenses for same time $216,470.03, of which $81,301.80 were expended on the track, and $46,481.54 on engines and cars. Trains have run 106,805 miles, without material accident to the injury of persons or property, and with great promptness and regularity, unless prevented by connecting roads. The continued high prices of all material used for construction, repairs, or operating the road, and the unheard of high price of labor, render it impossible to keep the total expenses at a point which might ordinarily seem reasonably low. Constant effort is made to secure strict economy in every department.

"The friendly relations which were alluded to in our last annual report, as existing between us and the managers of the Portland and Kennebec, Somerset and Kennebec, and the Androscoggin Railroads, still continue, to the mutual interests of all these lines of road, and giving thereby increased accommodations to the public. We are, however, meeting serious impositions and exactions from the managers of the roads west of Portland with which we connect, that imperatively call for reform. The entire Railroad interest of this State east of Portland, and also the vast interests which those roads are developing in every branch of industry along their extended lines, will not consent, we trust, much longer quietly, to be arbitrarily and unreasonably taxed by the roads referred to; and we ought not to submit to present exactions until we have exhausted every means in our power to obtain more liberal treatment. We have been unable to make any abiding contract with them for doing our through business. They claim and exercise the right to fix such a tariff of rates as they may see fit, and also to change those rates at pleasure without consultation with the roads east of Portland with which they connect. Instead of considering ours as connecting Roads which bring to them an immense amount of business, thereby entitling us to a just and favorable consideration, they have for a long time, and to-day, are charging us ten per cent. more for the transportation of every passenger we take to them, than they exact from individuals or firms who simply buy a package of fifty tickets. This is an injustice which marks the policy of those Roads towards us, and which, we think, is without a parallel in the history of connecting Roads similarly situated. In matters of freight we have great cause of complaint. They provide no depo accommodations whatever for receiving our freight, and it repeatedly occurs that, when our freight reaches the P. S. & P. Road, they have neither cars to receive it nor depot to protect it from the weather, and we are compelled to take our cars and freight back across the city and wait their convenience to send it forward.

"The Directors of the European & North American Railway Company are still laboring with great energy and earnestness to carry forward to completion that important enterprise. The unabated and untiring efforts of the President of that Corporation, especially deserve the highest commendation. Such persistency in a work of acknowledged importance to this State, and we may add, to the country at large, ought and must be crowned with ultimate success. The people of Bangor and the Eastern part of the State are moving actively in aid of the Road, and we can but repeat what we urged upon this Company in our last annual report, that the deep interest we have in the success of that enterprise makes it our duty especialy, to do all in our power to second the efforts of that Company in the early consummation of that great work."

MR. NOYES, the Superintendent, says:—"The passenger trains during the first part of the time embraced by this report, were subject to delays and irregularities chiefly in consequence of the failure of the trains West of Portland to make their time in arriving at Portland from Boston, and to the irregularity of the trains, upon the Grand Trunk Railway. Within the last month or two by changes made in running time and improvements in running the trains between Danville and Portland, the trains on this road have been running with regularity and promptness.

"The traffic of the road during the seven months ending Dec. 31, 1865, embraced in this report, shows a gratifying increase over any similar period, since the completion of the road. In the passenger department this increase has in part arisen from the movement of discharged soldiers and others, in consequence of the close of the war. The high price of the products of the farm and of manufactured goods, has induced producers of all descriptions to hasten their commodities to a market, and thus has pressed into these months a heavier tonnage in freight than has before occurred. With any certain mode of reaching Boston, where most of the commodities of Maine tend for a market, we should have transported a much greater amount and earned a large increase over our present earnings in the freight department. During much of the time great delays have occurred in Portland to goods destined for Boston, from the want of any facilities for receiving freight destined for Boston by rail by the only road leading out of the State. Aside from this it has been difficult during much of the time to obtain cars at Portland in which to forward goods to Boston. The Steamers to Boston are and have been mostly taken up by the goods and products coming over the Grand Trunk road, so that practically our line has been for some of the time shut out from carrying products destined for Boston. With suitable places to receive articles destined for Boston on the arrival of cars in Portland, and with equipment there, adequate to transport them from thence with despatch, the difference in guage, requiring a transhipment in Portland would not be a very serious inconvenience or expense, nor need it cause much, if any delay.

"The earnings from passengers have been $195,717.09, and from Goods $126,693.28; from other sources $13,560.83.

"It is to be remembered that the months embraced by this report are the months when all of the repairs upon the track, bridges, buildings and fence in the whole year have to be made, and when I entered upon the duties of this office I found a notice from the Railroad Commissioners of the State, which had been served upon my predecessor, which said that "from an inspection of the track, culverts and bridges upon the road in the months of June and July previous, 5916 battered, laminated and defective bars of iron had been found in the track and twenty thousand sleepers so rotten and decayed as to require renewal in order to insure the safety of the trains.' Besides these, sundry culverts and cattle passes were required to be built. To perform all or the principal part of these requirements in the limited part of the season then left, was no easy matter. The whole 5916 bars equivalent to over 1000 tons of iron could not then be obtained in season to be laid before winter. The sleepers we had on hand, such as they were. All of the culverts and cattle passes referred to were rebuilt and made secure. Additional sleepers were obtained and in all about 37,000 were put under the track before winter set in, and five hundred tons (2500 bars) new iron were laid. This was all that could be obtained in season to go into the track before winter.

[The Annual Meeting of the Company was held yesterday, 28th, at Waterville.]

PUBLIC MEETING. Somebody who signs "Per Order," has advertised (through the columns of the Times) a meeting at City Hall to-night "to endorse the President's policy."

It is supposed the chairman will open the meeting by reading the following "call":

"GREAT VICTORY FOR THE SOUTH." Under this heading the Norfolk (Va.) Post thus begins an article on the President's veto of the Freedmen's Bureau bill:

"Since the morning of July 22d, 1861, when the news of the great Southern victory achieved by Beauregard over McDowell, and the awful rout of the Federal army on the plains of Manassas, was borne through the South, on the wings of the wind, as it were, carrying joy and jubilation into every loyal Southern household, and gladdening every true Southern heart, there has been no news received with so much rejoicing by the people of the South as that contained in the despatch informing them the President had vetoed the Freedmen's Bureau bill. This is the greatest victory they have achieved during the war—greater than any of the feats of arms of Stonewall Jackson or of Robert E. Lee; and it has given them more pleasure than had Gen. Lee been elected Governor of Virginia. They have found an ally in the President worth more to them than the alliance of France or England, and they now begin to see, even as they saw foreshadowed at Manassas, the final triumph of the great Southern cause.

The Bangor Democrat of this morning, after announcing the meeting, says:

The PEOPLE will move right on. They are satisfied that the President is right, and they don't mean that their voice shall be stifled. They want to speak out their approval of the Restoration policy of ANDREW JOHNSON, of his veto, and of his noble speech, and they will do it to-night at the City Hall.

Further comment is unnecessary. It is supposed that spectators will take the galleries.

[We have since learned that these Democrats will fire one hundred guns to-day, in testimony of their support of the President's veto.]

Speaking of the recent Weed and Raymond demonstration at New York, the Lewiston Journal says:—"The efforts of Secretary Seward and Thurlow Weed to make everything appear cheerful, politically, might have more effect were it not remembered how many cheerful prophecies the diplomatic Secretary made during the war, which failed of being realized. Their efforts, however, to engineer a new 'conservative' party into existence do not seem to be appreciated by the loyal land, so much as by the unreconstructed rebels. A most remarkable despatch—which reads very much like a burlesque, but which is published by Secretary Seward's organ, the New York Times—is sent to Washington from New York by Secretary Seward, which thus elevatedly reads:—'It is all right and safe. The Union is restored and the country is safe. The President's speech is triumphant, and the country will be happy.'—This is the worst gasconade we have heard, of late. Again, Thurlow Weed telegraphed on Friday afternoon, from New York, to Senator Morgan in Washington,—'All right here, in Washington and in the country. The work is done.' From this it is quite evident how hard the new evangelists are at work to patch up a new political party, to ride into the next Presidency on. But these men will find many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip. The people have seen too much of Dixie the past few years to trust the 'Southern heart,' unless the necessary protection be incorporated in the constitution and laws of the land. So, why not come up to the work, like men! We hope such men as Seward will not join hands with copperheads in putting down the Northern 'radicals.'"

GEN. HOWARD AND THE PRESIDENT.—A Washington despatch states that the head of the Freedman's Bureau, Gen. Howard, had an interview with the President before the veto message was sent in. It is said he endeavored to stay the blow for a while, but it was no use: the President's mind was fully made up, and he could conceive of no argument now that could change it. The opinion of General Howard is that Congress will so modify the bill as to satisfy the President, who will then sign it.

A Pacificator.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.

Senator Sherman made a long and elaborate speech to-day, with the laudable intent to pour oil upon the troubled waters. He supported both Congress and the President. He was sure Congress had full authority to pass the pending resolution on the subject of reconstruction, but could not see that any good would be subserved by doing so, tho' he would vote for it if it was pressed to a passage. He reviewed the reconstruction policy of the President at length, and gave it his hearty approval; but held that Congress was entirely justified in refusing to admit the Southern States to representation till it had taken plenty of time to examine into their condition. He was not certain that the pardoning power had in all cases been wisely exercised, but Congress had given the President full authority in the premises. He believed that suffrage was just as much the right of the negro as of the white man, but approved the President's course in deferring to the prejudices of the people on that subject. He severely censured the President for the personalities of his late speech, but begged gentlemen to remember what provocation had been given to him by Messrs. Sumner, Stevens and Phillips. He condemned the President for his gross attack upon the joint committee on reconstruction, but excused him on the ground that it was ordered by the House without waiting for the annual message on the state of the country. He thought individual members of Congress had been needlessly caustic at the expense of the President, but admitted that the President's course, since the fourth of December, had not been in harmony with the views of the republican party. In conclusion, he said that no word or act of his should force the President into a coalition with those who opposed the war and the cause of the Union.

This reminds us of the humorous remark of a member of Congress to a friend who didn't know which side he was on. "Take the New York Times," said he, "you will will then be on both sides."

A SOUTHERN UNIONIST—Important Declarations of John Minor Botts. John Minor Botts is out in a long letter on reconstruction in general, with especial reference to reconstruction in Virginia. The opinions advanced in his political axioms, recently published, are enlarged upon, and new arguments advanced to prove the illegality of President Johnson's rebel pardons, the unconstitutionality of the Virginia Legislature &c. Speaking of his own State, he says:

If there has been the first indication of loyalty, forbearance or generosity, manifested either by the press or by those who have thrust themselves into high places forbidden by the constitution, beyond what might have been well called lip service, I have failed to perceive it. On the contrary, I have seen Union men who have been appointed to offices by Gov. Pierpont, men who filled their offices respectably and responsibly, brought out, one by one, day after day, for the keen-whetted knife of the secession guillotine, to be decapitated as fast as they could be brought to the block, and their places supplied from the secession ranks in every instance, and generally by men less qualified than those removed, whilst Mr. Taylor, the Auditor, a secessionist and one of Governor Pierpont's appointments, was unanimously confirmed in his place.

—A band of forgers of government vouchers have been arrested at Nashville, Tenn., and one of the number has made a confession implicating several persons heretofore considered honest.

[ADVERTISEMENT.]

We would call the attention of all those in want of a pleasant and remunerative business, (particularly Ministers and Teachers who wish to add to their small pittance), to the advertisement in our columns this day headed "Solicitors Wanted," and can assure them that the Company ranks with the best in the country. 4t r col

CATARRH

The following testimonial is from Hon. Theodore Wyman, member of the Legislature from Sebec:

"After suffering from catarrh and polypus in my head for six years, I placed myself under the care of Dr. Carpenter, at the Bangor House, who removed the polypus with little pain, and after about three months treatment for catarrh, I find myself free from the complaint. When I consulted the Dr., I had copious discharges from my nose and mouth, dullness in the head and much difficulty in talking and breathing; I now have none of these troubles." THEODORE WYMAN.

Perry's Moth and Freckle Lotion.

Chloasma, or Mothpatch, (also Liverspot,) and Lentigo, or Freckles, are often very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, for the discolored spots show more plainly on the face of a blonde than a brunnette; but they greatly mar the beauty of either: and any preparation that will effectually remove them, without injuring the texture or color of the skin, is certainly a desideratum. Dr. B. C. Perry, who has made diseases of the skin a speciality, has discovered a remedy for these discolortaions, which is at once prompt, infallible and harmless.

Prepared only by B. C. PERRY, Dermatologist, No. 49 Bond Street, New York, and for sale by all druggists; in Bangor, by Warren L. Alden, Whole sale Agent; price $2.00 per bottle. Call for PERRY'S MOTH AND FRECKLE LOTION.

Matters at the Capital!

A Circular relative to the Termination of the Reciprocity Treaty.

Death of a Maine Officer in Tallahassee, Florida.

Edward W. Green, the Malden Murder, to be Hung.

Mass Meeting in New Haven Connecticut.

The Speech of Senator Doolittle.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.

Official news from El Paso, the seat of national government of Mexico, has been received here up to the 2d inst.

The French column which had started from Chihuahua to El Paso, had returned to Chihuahua, and it was understood that all the French troops at the city of Chihuahua were about leaving that State, of which they are only the capital.

The indications are, from what has fallen from members of the Reconstruction Committee, that a bill will soon be reported, providing for the recognition of the State of Tennessee and the consequent admission of her Senators and Representatives to Congress.

The President was waited on this afternoon by a committee of the James Page Lipscomb committee, and presented with some complimentary resolutions passed by that body.

The President thanked the committee for the encouragement shown him.

A meeting of the Iron and Steel Association was held here to-day, and was attended by a number of factors from different parts of the country. The Association numbers 250 members representing furnaces, rolling mills, &c., in nearly all the northern states. The President of the Association said they were here to ask Congress to ward off the danger which appears to threaten the manufacturing interests of the country.

A delegation from Pennsylvania said the Association needed a protective tariff of $15 per ton on iron, as one-fifth of the market is supplied by our greatest enemy—England!

The number of callers at the President's office to-day was unusually large. Lt Gen. Grant, Gens. Howard and Caxton, Wm. L. Harvey, senator elect from Miss., and other members elect to Congress from the reconstructed States had interviews with the President.

Lt-Col. Stinson of Maine, a member of Gen Howard's staff, died in Tallahassee, Fla., on the 22d inst.

The Secretary of the Treasury has just issued the following circular to collectors of customs and others, in relation to the termination of the reciprocity treaty—

Treasury Department, March 1.

You have been heretofore advised that the reciprocity treaty between the United States and Her Britannic Majesty's Province, proclaimed on the 11th of September, 1854, will expire on the 17th inst.

In the absence of any instructions from this department to the contrary, you will please consider the several tariff laws now in force as your guide in the assessment and collection of duties on any goods, wares, or merchandise imported on and after the 18th inst. into the United States from the British provinces.

At such ports as are without appraisers, and where the responsibility of appraising the value and determining the classification of goods, wares, &c., rests upon the collectors of customs, the utmost care should be exercised in determining the value of any goods, wares, &c., imported from any of the British Provinces. It is competent for the appraisers of any one acting as appraiser to take the actual market value on the principal of either of the Provinces of Great Britain.

(Signed) H. McCULLOCH,
Sec'y of Treasury.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28.

The Democrats held a very large and enthusiastic meeting here last evening to endorse the President's action.

A meeting of the same character was also held at Sacramento.

The steamer Sierra Nevada has arrived at Portland, Oregon, bringing $152,543 in treasure.

The Nevada Senate has endorsed the action of Congress.

BOSTON, Feb. 28.

The Executive Council, at a meeting this afternoon, appointed Wednesday, April 18, for the execution of Edward W. Green for the murder of young Converse, assistant cashier of the Malden Bank, some two years ago. The vote of the Council was unanimous.

BOSTON, Feb. 28.

There was a large attendance in the Supreme Court room to-day to hear F O J Smith's appeal to have the verdict convicting him of subornation of perjury set aside and a new trial granted. He occupied nearly the whole day, and among the chief allegations in his argument was that his conviction was effected by a foul and wicked conspiracy, aided by perjured witnesses, and cowardice or want of intelligence on the part of the jury. When he had finished, Judge Putnam took the papers and adjourned the Court. A decision will probably be soon given. Smith remains at large under bail of $25,000.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 28.

Senator Doolittle addressed a meeting of Republicans here to-night called together to sustain the President.

Gen. H. Watrous, Esq., presided.

Mr Doolittle made a temperate speech, calling on all Republicans to stand by the President. He contended that Mr Johnson has carried out every requirement of the Baltimore platform of 1864, and no set of men ought to bind him to another.

What if the Democrats do favor him—They must go somewhere! They can not get together now and resolve that the war is a failure. Grant and Sherman have settled that. Where else can they go but to the party which determined to carry on the war and carried it on, determined to put down the rebellion, and put it down, determined to save the Union, and saved it beyond the reach of peril.

He explained that the President does not now nor had he ever maintained that Congress has not a right to judge of the credentials of its members, but that he insists on the right of each house to decide whether a people have a right to elect a Representative, or whether a Legislature is competent to elect a Senator. Suppose England were to capture in war, one of the districts in Maine, of course the people of that district could not elect a member of Congress. If she should capture three of the five districts there could be no quorum in the Legislature and so there could not be a Senator elected from Maine, in the U. S. Senate; but suppose in the progress of the war we should recapture one district, then that district would be competent to elect a Representative to Congress. If four of the five districts were retained might not a Senator be elected? He offered the same rule to the South, insisted on an immediate admission of the loyal members.

He opposed forcing negro suffrage upon the South, and said Gen Grant recently assured him it would result in a war of extermination.

He also opposed amending the constitution in any way, maintaining that changing the basis of representation is unnecessary, inasmuch as at least a million of negroes have died or been killed since 1860, and by 1872, when the next apportionment goes into effect, two-fifths of them will be out of the way. About one-third of the Southern whites have been killed so that the representation of those States would not probably be increased.

He spoke disparagingly of the extremists Senator Sumner and others. [Whereupon he was greeted with a storm of hisses, followed by applause, interrupting the speaker for some time.] He (Mr. Doolittle) conceded sincerely to all, but thought that the men who had the courage to sustain the act had saved the President to the Union party.

The resolutions adopted by the meeting express the opinion that there is no good reason for the disruption of the Union party—that the President and Congress have the same great end in view; that Andrew Johnson has not and never will betray his trust, and that in urging that the Southern States be admitted to Congress, with none but loyal representatives, he is carrying out the policy of the lamented Lincoln.

Rev. Dr. Bacon also spoke saying that he did not come specially to endorse President Johnson or any body else.

He hoped the South might soon be represented with safety, but wanted the strong arm of the law to protect the freedmen and loyal whites in their rights. Gen. Terry declared to him recently, in Richmond that should his army be materially lessened he should be obliged to remove his headquarters to Fort Monroe.

RICHMOND, Feb. 28.

The Senate passed the House bill providing that all testimony given by colored persons shall be oral.

The Senate also passed House Bill giving validity to various acts, contracts and proceedings during the war, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the United States.

Thirty-Ninth Congress.

FIRST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.

Senate.

Mr. Wilson introduced a joint resolution fixing the mileage of officers in the Army and Navy at 10 cts per mile instead of six, when transportation in kind is not furnished by the Government.

Mr. Grimes introduced a bill to establish hydrographic office in the Navy Department, to supply charts, etc., at the cost of printing.

Mr. Fessenden reported the Naval Appropriation Bill, with amendments. Ordered to be printed.

The credentials of Mr. Berry, Senator elect from South Carolina, were presented, and tabled.

Memorials of Nevada Legislature against the sale of public lands, and for the speedy trial of Jeff Davis were presented.

A bill was passed to grant lands in aid of a railroad from Humboldt Bay to San Francisco.

A bill to grant lands in aid of a railroad through Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific coast, was considered without action.

The concurrent resolutions that no Senator or Representative from the lately rebellious States be received until Congress decide such State entitled to representation, was taken up.

Mr. Nye argued against slavery as the cause of the rebellion. He held it was the duty of the loyal people to see that they had security for the future.

At the close of Mr. Nye's remarks, Mr. Johnson moved that the further consideration of the subject be postponed until to-morrow, which was subsequently withdrawn, when Mr. Stewart took the floor and spoke in favor of the proposition.

At the conclusion of his speech, a motion to adjourn was voted upon, resulting—yeas 8, nays 19—a quorum not voting. After a debate, on requesting the Sergeant-at-Arms to procure the attendance of absent members, on motion of Mr. Hendrick, the Senate adjourned.

House.

The House resumed the consideration of the Constitutional Amendment.

Mr. Davis had the floor.

Mr. Stevens asked him to yield, that he might have an important document read.

Mr. Rogers rose up at the same time and made a personal explanation. He had been mistakenly represented as endorsing the speech of Secretary Seward, which he would be ashamed to do. He endorsed Mr. Raymond. He also had been represented as wanting the rebel debt paid, whereas he opposed its payment.

Mr. Davis refused to yield the floor to Mr. Stevens.

Mr. Washburn stated that it was merely a despatch stating that the Union members of the Pennsylvania Legislature had a caucus and endorsed Congress.

Mr. Davis spoke against the Constitutional Amendment, arguing that the Southern States were not out of the Union, nor had they lost any rights as States.

At the conclusion of Mr. Davis' remarks, Mr. Woodbridge obtained the floor.

Mr. Stevens sent up to the desk and had read a despatch about a caucus of the Pennsylvania Legislature, and asked consent to have it referred to the Joint Committee on Reconstruction.

Mr. Chandler objected, and Mr. Stevens withdrew the document.

Mr. Woodbridge addressed the House in support of the Amendment, and was followed by Mr. Bingham, on the same side.

Mr. Bingham's hour having expired, his time was extended. He was frequently interrupted by questions and points of order.

Mr. Conkling obtained the floor. He said that as one of the Committee, he had agreed to the amendments being reported, but he did not vote for the postponement of the proposition.

Mr. Conkling moved that the whole subject be postponed until the second Tuesday in April next.

Mr. Eldridge moved to lay the whole subject on the table.

The motion was lost—40 to 110.

Mr Conkling's motion was adopted—118 to 36.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the state of the Union, on the miscellaneous appropriation bill, Mr Ashley in the Chair, and made some progress.

After the committee rose the Speaker presented a communication from the commissioner of patents transmitting his annual report for 1865.

Mr Grinnell moved to print ten thousand extra copies. Referred to the committee on printing.

J. L. Thomas presented petition of 2600 workingmen of Washington, praying for the adoption of the eight hour system in the Government workshop. Referred to the judiciary committee.

Mr Ludlow presented the resolutions of the New York Legislature relative to a ship canal from Portage Lake to Lake Superior.

State vs. Michael Dunn. Verdict guilty of being receiver of stolen goods.

PERSONAL. The Hon. A. Gordon, Lieut. Governor of New Brunswick, accompanied by his nephew, Lord George Hamilton, Rifle Brigade, who is also son of the Marquis of Abercorn and nephew of the Prime Minister Lord Russell, and by Capt. H. Hollowes, 15th Regiment, A. D. C., arrived in town by special train Tuesday at midnight, en route from Quebec to Fredericton via St. Johns.

Yesterday morning they enjoyed a drive about the city with His Honor Mayor Dale, visiting the Theological Seminary, where they met the Faculty and students of the Seminary and the clergy of the city.

The party then visited the high schools, devoting a few moments to the recitations, &c. Unexpectedly an original poetical address to Old England, composed by a young lady, a member of the school, was read, which so gratified the visitors that Governor Gordon made some remarks to the school expressive of the gratification of the company at what they had seen and heard in the State, and city.

The party, after visiting the Cathedral, lunched at the hospitable board of the Mayor where they were met by several gentlemen, members of the Judiciary of the State, and others, with whom an hour was pleasantly spent in social intercourse and the exchange of sentiment.

In response to the sentiment, "Her Majesty the Queen of England," Gov. Gordon addressed the company in a dignified and patriotic tone, calculated to cement closer the friendly relations existing between this country and England, saying that we had one ancestry, one language, one religion, and that though the national emblem of one nation was the "stars and stripes," and of the other the Cross of St. George, yet the colors—the red, white and blue—were the same in both. He alluded to the fact that Longfellow is read in England as generally as here, and that he finds volumes of British authors on almost every library shelf in Maine. He concluded by proposing the "President and People of the United States," to which the Hon. E. L. Hamlin fitly responded.

The party started at noon yesterday in an extra by the Air Line Line for New Brunswick.

ADMITTED TO THE BAR. On motion of Albert W. Paine, Esq., of this city, Major Whiting S. Clark was admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Judicial Court yesterday, His Honor Judge Cutting presiding, to practice as a Counsellor and Attorney at Law. Major Clark entered the service in the First Maine Heavy Artillery upon graduation from Waterville College, and has been a student in Mr Paine's office for the past year. He was also Assistant Secretary of the Maine Senate the past session of the Legislature. His friends will be pleased to learn that the Major intends to open an office in this city after attending a course of study in the Law School at Harvard.

—We are indebted to Hon. F. A. Pike for a copy of the Agricultural Report from the Patent office.

—We learn that the ice in the dead water above Corporation Mills (Veazie) broke up on Tuesday night, although two feet thick in places, and was carried over the dam, taking with it several piers and the bridge over the sluiceway. The jam of ice is now below Eddington Bend. It is not likely that the ice will break up here at present, unless we have another warm term like that of last week. The water, however, has risen several feet, and the ice in the Kenduskeag is broken up nearly to its mouth.

CORRECTION. The compositor made a singular error in presenting the names of the Young Men's Bible Society, put in type on Tuesday night. We re-publish correctly.

—At the thirty-eighth annual meeting of the Mechanic Association, held by adjournment on the 23d inst., the following board of officers were elected:

Willard Cutter, President.
Job Collett, Vice President.
Franklin Muzzy, Treasurer.
Samuel Darling, Secretary.
Wm. H. H. Pitcher, S. S. Smith, Charles W. Jaques, David Z. Bickmore, Charles B. Brown, Trustees.

At the meeting of the Board on the 26th, Samuel Darling was appointed Collector, and Wm. H. H. Pitcher, Librarian.

—The Saco Democrat says that on Saturday afternoon, two boys, named Plummer and Hill, got into a fight in the vicinity of City Hall, Biddeford, during which Hill stabbed Plummer in the lung, causing a serious wound. Hill was arrested. Plummer we understand is doing well.

—We learn from the Bath Times that Major Henry W. Owen, a prominent business man of that city died on Monday last.

WATERVILLE & SOLON RAILROAD. The bill giving an extension of the charter formerly granted, for the construction of a railroad from Waterville to Solon, via Norridgewock and Anson, passed both branches of the Legislature. It gives seven years for the construction of the road, and parties interested are strongly of opinion that it will be in operation within three years. Efforts will be immediately put forth to secure the stock.

—The great Freedman's Aid Fair in Portland, to continue through this week, is a magnificent success. It opened on Monday evening with a perfect crowd at the new City Hall—more than three thousand persons being present, even by the Argus's account, which heads its report with the sneering caption "The African must be Preserved!"

FATAL ACCIDENT. The Saco Democrat says that on Friday last as some boys were at play on the logs near Hobson's Mills, they in some way started the logs, one of which rolled over a little French boy 7 years of age, son of Lewis Garret, breaking his neck and killing him instantly.

—Wales Hubbard, Esq., the present law reporter of decisions, having signified his intention of resigning that office, Gen. Wm. Wirt Virgin, President of the Senate during its recent session, has been appointed to the position. An excellent appointment.

The Skowhegan Clarion says the building for the Excelsior Factory, 50 by 100 feet, is up and in a forward stage of progress toward completion. It will be ready to receive the machinery in about two weeks.

A LARGE ENTERPRISE. On our return from Bangor, a few days ago, we were shown, by the politeness of Henry Poor, Esq., of Boston, of the firm of Shaw, Kingman & Co., of Winn, or "Five Islands," sixty miles above Bangor, on the east bank of Penobscot river, over their extensive establishment, erected at that place, at a cost sixty thousand dollars, for the tanning of sole leather exclusively. Here where a few years ago the only signs of life were the occasional passing of teams on their way down river, loaded with shingles, or upward bound, freighted with goods for the Aroostook, (if we may except the landing of freight and passengers during the periodical running of steamers above Oldtown,) may now be heard the hum of the ponderous machinery necessary to carry on the process of manufacturing leather.

Some idea of the extent of this concern may be formed, when we state that seven thousand cords of hemlock bark are required to supply the tannery one year. It is at present mostly obtained upon the seventeen thousand acres of land owned by the company. This is all ground in one mill, which must grind on an average about twenty-three cords per day throughout the year, Sundays excepted. The principal building is six hundred feet long, the vats in which will hold sixty thousand sides, or the hides of thirty thousand cattle. The stock, which is replaced ever six months, comes from every quarter of the globe, but principally from South America, the East Indies and Calcutta. They are shipped to Bangor, thence to Milford over the Oldtown railroad, and are either hauled by horses the remainder of the distance, or put on board the boats which run between Oldtown and Winn during the high water season of spring and fall. The freight bill from Milford by horse power, a distance of fifty miles, is no small item, the amount of which will be reduced some four or five thousand dollars per year when the railroad is built to that point, by the difference between steam and horse power.

The company employ about one hundred men in the different departments. Half a million of dollars are required to change hands in prosecuting the business of this one of the many tanneries owned and worked by this company. A beautiful little village has sprung up in consequence of the handsome business carried on at this place, which is destined to be the point of attraction and general depot or stopping-place between Bangor and the Aroostook. A good hotel is among the wants of the place, which no doubt time will supply.—[Pioneer.

—The wife of "Grandpa Davis," at Knoxville, Tenn., has given birth to twenty-nine children, twenty-eight of whom are living, and twenty-five of them served in the Union army during the late rebellion. Mr. Davis is upwards of ninety years of age, but hale and hearty.

—An Illinois paper urges the farmers of that region to cultivate castor beans. Several years ago, when they were worth only one dollar a bushel, they were considered a remunerative crop, but now they bring from five to six dollars per bushel.

—"That's stupid brute of yours, John," said a Scotch minister to his parishioner, the peat dealer, who drove his merchandize from door to door in a small cart drawn by a donkey; "I never see but the creature is braying." "Ah, sir," said the peat dealer, "ye ken hearts warm when fren's meet."

—I am astonished, my dear young lady, at your sentiments. You make me start. "Well, sir, I have been wanting you to start for the last hour."

—The following is said to be on the tomb of a lady who is buried in Baltimore. She was born in 1618, and died in 1738:

"Stop passenger until my life you read:
The living may get knowledge by the dead.
Five times five years I lived a virgin's life,
Ten times five years I was a virtuous wife.
Ten times five years I lived a widow chaste.
Now, wearied of this mortal life, I rest.
Between my cradle and my grave have been,
Eight mighty kings of Scotland, and a queen.
Four times five years the Commonwealth I saw,
Ten times the subjects rose against the law.
Twice did I see old prelacy pulled down,
And twice the cloak was humbled by the gown.
An end to Stuart's race I pray, pay more,
My native country sold for English ore.
Such desolation in my life have been
I have an end of all perfection seen."

—An exchange paper says that if the parties who robbed the Concord Bank are now in custody, they are kept so securely and so secretly that the public knows nothing about them, and the impression prevails that they have been released, and the affair compromised.

President Johnson, in his recent Washington public talk, alluded to assassination, and talked glibly about being made a martyr for the Union and the Constitution. The Portland Press says:

"President Johnson is not the kind of man whom the assassin's knife seeks out. Men who prove false to their friends, and false to the great principles upon which they have been lifted into high places of honor, or who make their beds with the enemies of their country, are seldom in danger of assassination. It is the just and true men whom the evil minded seek to smite down. Such was Lincoln. Such, one of the men whom Mr. Johnson brands as a traitor, when he fell beneath the uplifted bludgeon of the South Carolina bully on the floor of the Senate Chamber. President Johnson need have no fear. He has made his peace with the assassins, and his speech of Thursday will cause a thrill of joy in the heart of every rebel from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, and cause Jeff Davis to thank God, take courage and feel that his cause and that of his confreres is not all lost.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.

The President had a talk last evening with several Eastern Congressmen in respect to the test oath and amendments to the Constitution. With regard to oaths he is reported as having said that he was inclined to think that swearing to support the Constitution is known sufficient test of loyalty. With regard to amendments he is reported as having said that he thought they had better be dropped till Southern members were admitted, so that the whole country could have a voice in proposing them for adoption. He further thought the question of representation a comparatively small matter, and said the North could afford to overlook the two-fifths advantage to the South, because emigration, &c., would soon remedy it. If, however, the basis of representation was to be changed, he would favor making voters the basis. He asked how gentlemen expected to secure the adoption of any amendment by the Southern States; and when answered by the same means which secured the adoption of that abolishing slavery, he responded that he saw no similarity between the two cases.—[Special to Boston Adv.

A council called to consider the affairs of the Congregational church in Winterport, have advised that the pastoral relation between Rev. G. C. Wilson and that church be dissolved.

Rev. T. J. Thurston, son of one of the early missionaries in the Sandwich Islands, having recently completed his education in this country, has gone back to the islands to labor in the Christian ministry.

Our missionaries among the Nestorians in Persia have long been annoyed and seriously hindered in their work by the Moslem superintendent of Nestorian affairs. This man has now been removed through the efforts of the British Minister to Persia, and a very different man has taken his place.

Hon. James Monroe, United States consul at Rio Janeiro, has been offered the Presidency pt Oberlin College, in place of Dr Finney, resigned. Mr Monroe was formerly a professor in the college.

The Free Baptist Society of Saco have extended a call to Rev. E. True of Farmington, N. H., to become their pastor.

Rev W W Boyd, of Springvale, has resigned his pastorate in that place, his resignation to take effect April 1st.

A letter from Kehl mentions, as a proof of the good feeling which prevails among the different religious communities in the duchy of Baden, that on the occasion of a Jewish festival, a few days back, at Muggenstrum, near Rastadt, the synagogue was voluntarily decorated by a number of Christian fellow-townsmen, and during the service a Catholic priest, besides other persons of divers religious forms of worship, were present.

Dr Huntington estimates that two-thirds of the Episcopal ministers in this country formerly belonged to other communions.

The Rev. Elisha Lord Cleveland, D. D. for 33 years pastor of the 3d Congregational Church in New Haven, died in that city last week. He was a man of varied attainments and of eminently Christian character.

The proposition to procure a colleague for Henry Ward Beecher has been abandoned, he having stated that he neither needed nor desired one.

There is a proposition in Virginia for a union between the "Disciples" or "Campbellites" and the Baptists; a meeting with reference to it will be held in April or May next, in Richmond.

Whig & Courier

THE PURITAN OF 1863.

It was in the early part of October——, that the Rev. Mr. Allan started to walk to Farmer Owen's, over the hills. He had to walk across two spurs of the Green Mountains, and as he climbed to the top of the second the rich valley of the Otter Creek lay spread out before him. At any other time he would have stopped to admire its gentle undulations; its great flower garden of forest trees, rich in every color and hue; its silver threads wending their way to the waters of the Champlain, and the glorious autumn light that lay like a golden mantle over them all. But this afternoon he seemed oppressed by the beauty which surrounded him. He looked upon it with eyes misty with tears. There was a dull, heavy weight upon his heart—a weight which even the long, fervent prayers that he had uttered so unceasingly since noon had failed to move. Between him and that landscape, we almost might say, between him and the mercy seat, there moved a slight, tall boy, with a laughing blue eye, clustering brown hair, and lips always ready with a pleasant word. To-day, there was Bennie, putting under the bare, brawny arms of the butternut tree; throwing his line into the little brooks that came babbling down from the steep mountain side; driving his cows along the narrow foot-path; standing with Blossom under the bright maple, and shouting with pride and joy as she wreathed her pretty face in the gay leaves.

"Oh, Bennie! Bennie!" Mr. Allan hardly knew that he was calling the name until it came back to them with such an empty, mocking sound, the heartless echo; "almost"—Mr. Allan thought, startling himself with the seeming impiety of the words—"almost as if there were no great, kind Father over us all!"

As he came near Farmer Owen's house, he saw his oxen yoked to the plough. He knew they had been there since the telegram came. Mr. Owen had read it in the field, gone to the house and forgotten them; and no one had dared to put them up. He was a man fully capable of taking care of his own affairs under any circumstances, never having been known before to forget.

Mr. Allan beckoned to an Irishman who was passing, and asked him to take care of them. The man came with an awed look upon his face, as if even there he stood in the presence of a great sorrow and without the least noise obeyed.

Mr. Allan walked on slowly toward the house. He had known Mr. Owen for many years, and he knew him well. Indeed there was a peculiar bond of sympathy between the two men. In all his large parish, there was not one upon whom the minister relied as he did upon this strong, sturdy farmer. Many and many an hour had he walked by his side when he was upturning the brown earth, and had discussed with him on topics that would have sounded harsh and repulsive to common ears, but which were fraught with deep and vital interest to them. Mr. Owen was a direct descendant of the Puritans, and every drop of blood in his veins was tinged with as strong and true a "blue" as if he himself had landed in the Mayflower. He took naturally to the sterner doctrines of religion, while Mr. Allan, versed in all the modern lore, questioned and doubted. The key-stone of Mr. Owen's theology was the sovereignty of God—"Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?" This was the man upon whom God had now laid his hand so heavily; and Mr. Allan felt that if the trial brought no murmur, no rebellion against that Mighty Sovereign, the stern old faith were indeed a rich one in which to live and die. He knew that one element in this war was Puritan. Sons of the Roundheads filled up the ranks of the Northern army. They marched to battle to the strains of the old tunes that had lingered in the nursery and sanctuary from the day that Cromwell and his soldiers chanted them on Marston Moor. All down the aisles of Time came tramping to the music muffled men, bearing on their shields the two words, Liberty and Equality. They trembled on Mr. Owen's lips with his parting blessing to his boy. Would he remember them and would they comfort and give him strength now?

Where there is affliction in a house, the minister is at home. Mr. Allan entered without knocking, and made his way to the large, old-fashioned kitchen, in which he was sure of finding the family. There, by a table, with his arms folded heavily upon it, sat Mr. Owen. His wife was in a rocking-chair by the fire, and Blossom, a young girl, sat between them.

Mr. Owen rose to welcome him—so did Blossom; but the wife did not notice him,—she sat still, rocking herself to and fro, looking at the burning wood.

Mr. Allan put his hand in the brawny one that was held out toward him, and laid his other on Mr. Owen's heaving breast.

"My friend," he said, "how is it with the decrees of God?"

"Just and true are all Thy ways, Thou King of Saints," faltered the man.

There was something strange in his voice—a thin, womanly sound, so unlike the deep stentorian tones in which he had always spoken before. Mr. Allan, when he heard it, almost felt as if he had dealt him a death blow.

"Thank God! He has not, then, forsaken you, and from the depths of this deep trouble you can still say, The Maker doeth all things well."

"Yes, yes"—and for an instant there glimmered from his eye a dull spark of the old controversial fire—"You don't suppose I have held on to that anchor when the skies were cloudless, and little waves rocked my bark, to let it alone now—now, when the great waves and billows are going over me, do you? I've planted it firm—it don't yield, no, it don't yield but, the strain is terrible. God send it may carry me into port; oh, Mr. Allan, say it will. It has seemed to me to-day so dark, so wonderful, so inscrutable, that he—my Bennie! Mr. Allan, there is a good, wise purpose behind it all. Can you see it?"

"To bring you nearer the kingdom," said the minister.

"Oh, don't tell me that; I can't bear it. God is too wise. He knows a hundred such souls as mine are not worth one of my Bennie's. I can suffer if I am too great a sinner for God's grace to save, but Bennie! Bennie! I have sat here all day, since the news came, wondering, wondering; he was so good a son,"—and Mr. Owen's voice grew inarticulate in its emotion—"such a dear, precious, noble boy! I thought when I gave him to his country, that not a father in all this broad land made so precious a gift,—no, not one. God forgive me if my grief is a sin. Mr. Allan, the dear boy only slept a minute, at his post, I know that was all, for Bennie never dozed over a duty. How reliable he was!" And Mr. Owen's eye wandered over the brown fields with such a perplexed, wondering look.

"I know he only fell off one little second; he was so young, and not strong, that boy of mine! Why, he was as tall as I, and only eighteen! and now they will shoot him because he was found asleep when doing sentinel duty." Mr. Owen repeated these words very slowly, as if endeavoring to find out their true meaning—"Twenty-four hours," the telegraph said—only twenty-four hours. Where is Bennie now?"

"We will hope with his Heavenly Father," said Mr. Allan, soothingly.

"Yes, yes, let us hope. God is very merciful, and Bennie was so good—I do not mean holy," he said, correcting himself sharply. "No, there is none holy,—no, not one; but Jesus died for sinners, Mr. Allan, tell me that. Oh, Bennie! Bennie!"

The mother raised herself as she heard his name called, and turning, said with a smile,

"Don't call him so loud, father. Bennie is not far off; he will come soon."

"God laid his hand on them both, you see," said Mr. Owen, pointing to her, without making any direct reply. "She has not been justly herself since. It's a merciful thing she is sort of stunned; it seems to me; she makes no wail. Poor mother! if my heart was not broken, it would almost kill me to see her so. Bennie was her idol. I told her often, God has said, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me.""

Mr. Allan looked in astonishment at the bowed man as he came now and stood before him. These few hours had done the work of years. The sinewy frame was tottering, the eyes were dimmed, and the sudden sorrow had written itself in deep wrinkles all over his manly face. He recognized the power of the great, kind heart, simple and almost childlike in its innocent, clinging affection; how could this be reconciled with the stern, strong head—the head that to common observers outlined the character of the man? "God have mercy on you. He is trying you in a furnace seven times heated," he exclaimed, almost involuntarily.

"'I should be ashamed, father!' he said, 'when I am a man, to think I never used this great right arm,'—and he held it out so proudly before me,—'for my country when it needed it. Palsy it, rather than keep it at the plough!'"

"'Go, Bennie, then, go my boy,' I said, 'and God keep you.' God has kept him, I think, Mr. Allan!" and the farmer repeated these last words slowly, as if, in spite of his head, his heart doubted them.

"Like the apple of his eye, Mr. Owen, doubt it not."

Blossom had sat near them listening, with blanched cheek. She had not shed a tear to-day, and the terror in her face had been so still no one had noticed it. She had occupied herself mechanically with the household cares, which her mother's condition devolved entirely upon her. Now she answered a gentle tap at the kitchen door, opening it to receive from a neighbor's hand a letter. "It's from him," was all she said.

'Twas like a message from the dead. Mr. Owen could not break the seal for his trembling fingers, and held it toward Mr. Allan with the helplessness of a child.

The minister opened it, and obedient to a motion from the father, read as follows:—

"Dear Father:—When this reaches you I shall be in eternity. At first it seemed awful to me; but I have thought about it so much now, that it has no terror. They say they will not bind me nor blind me, but that I may meet my death like a man. I thought, father, it might have been on the battle-field, for my country, and that, when I fell, it would be fighting gloriously. But to be shot down like a dog, for nearly betraying it, to die for neglect of duty!—oh, father, I wonder the very thought does not kill me. But I shall not disgrace you. I am going to write you all about it, and when I am gone you may tell my comrades. I can't now.

"You know I promised Jemmy Carr's mother I would look after her boy, and when he fell sick I did all I could for him. He was not strong when he was ordered back into the ranks, and the day before that night I carried all his luggage, besides my own, on our march. Towards night we went in on double quick, and though the luggage began to feel very heavy, everybody else was tired too, and if I had not lent him an arm now and then, he would have fallen out by the way. I was all tired out when we came into camp, and then it was Jemmy's turn to be sentry, and I would take his place; but I was too tired, father. I could not have kept awake if I had had a gun at my head; but I did not know it until—well, until it was too late."

"God be thanked!" interrupted Mr. Owen, "I knew Bennie was not the boy to sleep carelessly at his post."

"They tell me to-day that I have a short reprieve, given to me by circumstances; time to write to you, the good colonel says. Forgive him, father, he only does his duty. He would gladly save me if he could; and don't lay up my death against Jemmy. The poor boy is broken-hearted and does nothing but beg and entreat them to let him die in my stead.

"I can't bear to think of mother and Blossom. Comfort them, father! Tell them I die as a brave boy should, and that when the war is over, they will not be ashamed of me as they must be now. God help me, it is very hard to bear. Good-bye, father. God seems near and dear to me, not at all as if he wished me to perish forever, but as if he felt sorry for his poor, sinful, broken-hearted child, and would take him to be with Him and my Saviour in a better—better life."

A great sob burst from Mr. Owen's heart. "Amen!" he said solemnly, "Amen!"

"To-night in the early twilight I shall see the cows all coming home from pasture.—Daisy and Brindle and Bet; old Billy, too, will neigh to me from his stall, and precious little Blossom stand on the back stoop waiting for me—but I shall never—never come. God bless you all; forgive your poor Bennie."

That night the door of the "back stoop" opened softly, and a little figure glided out and down the foot-path that led to the road by the mill. She seemed rather flying than walking, turning her head neither to the right nor the left, starting not as the full moon stretched queer, fantastic shapes all around her, looking only now and then to Heaven, and folding her hands as if in prayer.

Two hours later the same young girl stood at the Mill Depot, watching the coming of the night train, and the conductor, as he reached down to lift her in, wondered at the sweet, tear-stained face that was upturned toward the dim lantern he held in his hand.

A few questions and ready answers told him all, and no father could have cared more tenderly for his only child than he for our little Blossom.

She was on her way to Washington, to ask President Lincoln for her brother's life. She had stole away, leaving only a note to tell her father why and where she had gone. She had brought Bennie's letter with her; no good, kind heart, like the President's, could refuse to be melted by it.

The next morning they reached New York, and the conductor found suitable company for Blossom, and hurried her on to Washington. Every minute now might be a year in her brother's life.

And so in an incredibly short time, Blossom reached the Capital, and was hurried at once to the White House.

The President had but just seated himself to his morning's task of overlooking and signing important papers, when without one word of announcement, the door softly opened, and Blossom, with eyes downcast and folded hands, stood before him.

"Well, my child," he said, in his pleasant tones, "what do you want so bright and early in the morning?"

"Bennie's life, please, sir," faltered out Blossom.

"Bennie? Who is Bennie?"

"My brother, sir. They are going to shoot him for sleeping at his post."

"Oh, yes," and Mr. Lincoln ran his eye over the papers before him. "I remember. It was a fatal sleep. You see, child, it was a time of special danger; thousands of lives might have been lost for his culpable negligence."

"So my father said," replied Blossom, gravely, "but poor Bennie was so tired, and Jemmy was weak. He did the work of two, sir, and it was Jemmy's night, not his, but Jemmy was too tired, and Bennie never thought about himself, that he was too tired."

"What is this you say, child? Come here, I don't understand;" and the kind man caught eagerly, as ever, at what seemed to be a justification of an offence.

Blossom went to him; he put his hand on her shoulder, and turned up the pale, anxious face towards his. How tall he seemed, and he was President of the United States, too! A dim thought of this kind passed for a moment through Blossom's mind, but she told her story simple and straight-forward, and handed Mr. Lincoln Bennie's letter to read.

He read it carefully, then taking up his pen, wrote a few hasty lines and then rang his bell.

Blossom heard this order given; "SEND THE DESPATCH AT ONCE!"

The President then turned to the girl and said, "Go home, my child, and tell that father of yours, who could approve his country's sentence, even when it took the life of a child like that, that Abraham Lincoln thinks the life far too precious to be lost. Go back—or wait till to-morrow—Bennie will need change after he has so bravely faced death; he shall go with you."

"God bless you, sir," said Blossom, and who shall doubt that God heard and registered the request.

Two days after this interview, the young soldier came to the White House with his little sister. He was called into the President's private room, and a strap fastened "upon the shoulder," Mr. Lincoln said, "that would carry a sick comrade's baggage, and die for the good act so uncomplainingly." Then Bennie and Blossom took their way to their Green Mountain home, and a crowd gathered at Mill Depot to welcome them back, and farmer Owen's tall form towered above them all, and as his hand grasped that of his boy, Mr. Allan heard him say fervently, as the holiest blessing he could pronounce upon his child, "Just and true are all Thy ways, thou King of Saints."

That night Daisy and Brindle and Bet came lowing home from pasture, for they hear a well-known voice calling them at the gate; and Bennie, as he pats his old pets and looks lovingly in their great brown eyes, catches through the still evening air his Puritan father's voice as he repeats to his happy mother these jubilant words, "Fear not, for I am with thee; I will bring thy seed from the East and gather thee from the West; I will say to the North give up, and to the South keep not back, bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth, every one that is called by my name, for I have created him for my glory; I have formed him, yea, I have made him."

Important to Manufacturers.

FOR SALE—The best Water Privilege in North Eastern Pennsylvania, with about thirty feet fall of water, supported by a dam of solid masonry, laid in water cement. Supply of water unfailing, capable of running eight or ten wheels through the entire season. There are now seven wheels running on the property.

Located near the Borough of Honesdale, on the line of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, from which stock can be delivered directly into some of the shops.

Communicates with New York by Delaware and Hudson Canal, and with Philadelphia, Harrisburgh, Pittsburgh, &c., by rail. The cheapness of coal, and convenience of market communications, makes this a very desirable manufacturing property.

On the premises are four large factories and a first class saw mill.

About 160 acres of Farming Lands, with first class farm buildings, and over 100 acres of timber land can be purchased with the above property, if desired.

DR. LAROOKAH'S Sarsaparilla Compound,

For the Speedy and Permanent Cure of Liver Complaints, Scrofula or King's Evil, Eruptions, and all Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches and Boils; Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains in the Bones, Side and Head; for the various Weaknesses to which Females are liable; Dyspepsia, Debility, Emaciation, Dropsy, and all diseases resulting from or in an impure state of the Blood.

IT is invaluable to Nervous Sufferers, and a positive cure for Palsy arising from the abuse of Mercury or Lead.

It is a Tonic as well as an Alterative, and a sure protection from attacks that originate in change of climate, season or life.

LIVER COMPLAINTS and their combined symptoms, such as Lumbago, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Bilious Eruptions, &c. When caused by Scrofula taint, this compound is a most effectual remedy.

DYSPEPSIA or INDIGESTION, is often caused by Scrofula, which deranges the stomach, and renders it unhealthy. Indigestion is not always caused by Scrofula, when it is, this Sarsaparilla Compound is a ready cure.

NEURALGIA, HEADACHE and various disorders of the nervous system frequently arise from a low state of the constitutional health, and are much relieved and often cured by this powerful remedy.

ERYSIPELAS, Boils, Tumors, or Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Sores, &c. Moderate doses three times a day will usually effect the cure of the above complaints, but often requires considerable time.

Price one dollar per bottle. Six bottles for five dollars.

DR. LAROOKAH'S ALL-CONQUERING INDIAN VEGETABLE PULMONIC SYRUP,

A Sovereign Remedy for Coughs Colds, Bronchitis Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat & Lungs.

Unsurpassed by any Medical Discovery in the World. DR. E. R. KNIGHTS, Proprietor, Melrose, Mass.

Price 50 Cents and $1,00 per Bottle.

DR. KNIGHTS' Oriental Hair Restorer.

After a long series of experiments, this article, as it is now offered to the public, is believed to be the most perfect of its kind which science has ever devised. No pains have been spared to produce what has so long been demanded by thousands, who, from sickness or other causes, have become prematurely grey; and others, who, in the sere and yellow leaf of life, would retain, as far as possible, the semblance of youth. DR. KNIGHTS' ORIENTAL HAIR RESTORER, after a few applications, restores grey or faded hair to its original color, and is the only preparation of the kind upon which the public can place any reliance. It has never been known to fail in a single instance, and is totally unlike the thousand and one so-called Hair Restorers, by which so many have been egregiously deceived.

It is delightfully perfumed, gives the hair a rich and glossy appearance, promotes its luxuriant growth, and will not soil the skin, scalp, or any article of apparel.

PRICE 75 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

Prepared by E. R. KNIGHTS, Chemist, Melrose, Mass.

Sold by B. F. Bradbury, General Agent, Bangor, and by Druggists and Merchants everywhere.
